

ABSTRACT

PN offsets of a synchronized timing system are assigned to sectors of communications cells of a network. A minimum delay offset avoids signal collision between adjacent sectors. Delay offsets assigned to sectors of different cells are variable delay offsets.